BC Summit on Surgical Improvement event report available

On January 22, the Joint Collaborative Committees and the BC Patient Safety & Quality Council hosted The BC Summit on Surgical Improvement. More than 200 participants—including specialists, GPs, surgical team members, operational leaders, policy makers, patient representatives and others—gathered to learn about, discuss, and expand on surgical improvement relative to BC's surgical services strategy. An event report is available here.

MAiD Added to Pathways

Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD) has been added to Pathways as a new area of practice. You can now find a selection of resources on Pathways dealing with Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD), both for physicians and patients. Please consult with your local Division of Family Practice or Health Authority to determine how best to access a list of providers for your regions.
