

Divisions of Family Practice

A GPSC initiative

Supporting residents and students at point-of-care

Divisions of Family Practice, through support from the GPSC, offers residents and medical students in BC access to the online clinical resource UpToDate at no cost.

What is UpToDate?

- UpToDate is the premier evidence-based clinical decision support resource
- It provides access to the collective wisdom and experience of more than 5,100 leading clinicians on thousands of clinical topics
- UpToDate users can check drug information, use 135 medical calculators and access over 1,500 patient articles
- Physicians report UpToDate improves outcomes and saves one to three hours a week researching treatment options

Accessing UpToDate through Divisions of Family Practice

Complete the user profile form found on the Divisions of Family Practice Student/Resident Site: www.divisionsbc.ca/studentresident

You will receive an email requesting confirmation of:

- Your student number
- Your graduating class, if you are a student
- Your location and expected date of completion, if you are a resident

Once you submit the above information, you will receive emails with your Divisions Student/Resident site log-in information and more information on how to access UpToDate.

Divisions of family practice are community-based groups of family physicians working together to achieve common health care goals. Divisions work collaboratively with community and health care partners to enhance local patient care and improve professional satisfaction for physicians.

The Divisions of Family Practice initiative is funded by the General Practice Services Committee (GPSC), a joint committee of the provincial government and Doctors of BC. Learn more at www.divisionsbc.ca.
